For nearly two decades Craig has created award-winning work in projects ranging from retail and commercial centres, to revitalising urban and natural landscapes and preparing user friendly design guidelines and urban design framework plans. Craig's international experience particularly in Britain, Latin America and South East Asia inspires the content and thrust of his projects adding vitality, imagination and flair.

As the Hansen Design Director Craig works with and leads teams of experts working on a broad range of projects. His ability to articulate his concepts and ideas both verbally and visually ensures design outcomes which are practical to implement, durable over time and exciting to experience.

Craig believes in fostering talent in tomorrow's specialists and has lectured in Urban Design and Landscape Planning at the University of Melbourne. He also serves on Planning Panels Victoria as a sessional member.
